

Tuesday

On Tuesday we had to get up at 6 am to have breakfast at quarter to 7 and to be ready at 7 am, when Kemi wanted to leave the house to be at the meeting point at 8 am.

At half past 9 we started a sightseeing trip by bus through London. Passing Royal Albert Hall, Piccadilly Circus and some, in my opinion not that important sights, we had a stop at Buckingham Palace where we could take some really nice photos.

Then we had a break in which we just hung out and had some pizza and fish and chips for lunch while sitting under the London Eye at the banks of the river Thames and observing the people passing by.

At 3 pm we had a visit at the London Dungeon where my poor soul was scared out of my body. It was much fun listening to all the cool stories about those insane people. The best were the clown at the entrance and the story about the barber, who killed his customers, and his girlfriend, who made pies out of them. So the Dungeon was a great enrichment for me to see and hear about all those instruments of torture and London's dark history. After this exhausting but really amazing day our host mother picked us up and we had dinner.
